

All persons equally enjoy the right to move goods across the customs border, with the exception of those prohibited for import and/or export from/into the customs territory of the Customs Union.

We have noted that Russian citizens encounter rather many problems when they are planning to import the goods that fall into the category of "indivisible goods", as well as the goods intended for non-personal use or for commercial activity.

Our specialists shall eagerly consult and advise you on the above and any other matters of interest, including the import of cars.